Hitler's Childhood

Adolf Hitler was born in Braunau am Inn, Austria, on April 20, 1889. He was the fourth of six children born to Alois Hitler, a customs official, and Klara Pölzl, a peasant. Hitler's father was a strict disciplinarian, and his mother was a devout Catholic. Hitler's childhood was marked by poverty and violence. His father died when Hitler was 13, and his mother died of breast cancer when he was 18.

Hitler's early education was unremarkable. He attended a local primary school and then a secondary school in Linz. He was not a good student, and he often got into trouble with his teachers. Hitler dropped out of school at the age of 16 and moved to Vienna to pursue a career as an artist.

Hitler lived a simple life. He was a vegetarian and a teetotaler. He was also a hypochondriac who was obsessed with his health. Hitler's daily routine was regimented. He would wake up early and spend the morning reading and writing. He would then have lunch and take a siesta. In the afternoon, he would meet with his staff and attend to government business. In the evening, he would often dine with friends and family.
