I first saw The Wiggles on TV when I was a little kid. I was instantly hooked. I loved their music, their dancing, and their sense of humor. I wanted to be just like them.

As I got older, I started following The Wiggles on social media. I learned about their upcoming tours and started saving up my money to see them live. I finally got my chance in 2004, when they came to my hometown. I was so excited to see them in person, and they didn't disappoint. They were even better than I had imagined.

After that, I was hooked. I started following The Wiggles on every tour. I've seen them perform in over 20 countries, and I've met them several times. They're always kind and gracious, and they always put on a great show.

But it's not just the travel that's been life-changing. It's the people I've met and the friends I've made along the way. I've met other Wiggles fans from all over the world, and we've become a close-knit community. We share our love of The Wiggles, and we support each other through thick and thin.

I'm so grateful for the opportunity to have followed them around the world, and I can't wait to see what the next two decades have in store.
