That's the idea behind the Spirit of Enterprise, a non-profit organization that helps entrepreneurs launch businesses that address social and environmental challenges in low-income neighborhoods.

Since its founding in 2004, the Spirit of Enterprise has helped launch over 100 businesses in Detroit, Cleveland, and other cities across the country. These businesses have created jobs, improved access to healthy food, and provided affordable housing and other essential services to residents.

One of the Spirit of Enterprise's most successful ventures is the Detroit Food Bus. Founded in 2009, the Detroit Food Bus provides affordable, healthy meals to residents of Detroit's food deserts.

The Detroit Food Bus has been so successful that it has been replicated in other cities across the country. In 2014, the Spirit of Enterprise launched the Cleveland Food Bus, which provides affordable, healthy meals to residents of Cleveland's food deserts.

The Spirit of Enterprise is also working to address the issue of affordable housing in low-income neighborhoods. In 2015, the organization launched the Detroit Homeownership Initiative, which provides affordable mortgages to first-time homebuyers in Detroit.

The Detroit Homeownership Initiative has been so successful that it has been replicated in other cities across the country. In 2016, the Spirit of Enterprise launched the Cleveland Homeownership Initiative, which provides affordable mortgages to first-time homebuyers in Cleveland.

The Spirit of Enterprise is a powerful example of how entrepreneurship can be used to make a positive impact on communities. The organization's work is helping to revitalize low-income neighborhoods, create jobs, and improve the lives of residents.
