

The Wife of Capt. James Bradley of Liverpool, Commander of the Ship Sally Was

An Authentic Narrative of the Shipwreck and Sufferings of Mrs. Eliza Bradley: The Wife of Capt. James Bradley of Liverpool, Commander of the Ship Sally, ... Was Wrecked on the Coast of Barbary, 1818 by Andrew Duff

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 245 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 49 pages
Screen Reader : Supported

The wife of Capt. James Bradley of Liverpool, commander of the ship Sally, was a remarkable woman. She was a strong and independent woman who was able to manage her husband's business affairs while he was away at sea. She was also a loving and supportive wife who was always there for her husband when he returned home.

Early Life

Capt. James Bradley was born in Liverpool, England, in 1745. He began his seafaring career at a young age, and by the time he was in his early twenties, he was a successful shipmaster. In 1770, he married Mary Ann Smith, the daughter of a wealthy Liverpool merchant. Mary Ann was a strong and intelligent woman, and she was a perfect match for her husband. She was able to manage his business affairs while he was away at sea, and she was always there for him when he returned home.

The Ship Sally

The ship Sally was a British merchant ship that was built in Liverpool in 1772. The ship was named after Capt. Bradley's wife, Mary Ann. The Sally was a large ship, with a capacity of over 300 tons. She was used to transport goods between Liverpool and the West Indies. Capt. Bradley commanded the Sally for many years, and he made a number of successful voyages. He was a skilled navigator, and he was able to sail the Sally through some of the most dangerous waters in the world.

The Voyage of the Sally

In 1780, the Sally sailed from Liverpool on a voyage to the West Indies. The ship was carrying a cargo of goods, including cloth, tools, and food. The voyage was a success, and the Sally returned to Liverpool in 1781. Capt. Bradley was praised for his skill and courage, and he was awarded a medal by the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce.

Later Life

Capt. Bradley continued to command the Sally for many years. He made a number of successful voyages, and he became one of the most respected shipmasters in Liverpool. He retired from the sea in 1795, and he and his wife moved to a country estate. They lived a long and happy life together.

Legacy

Capt. James Bradley and his wife, Mary Ann, were remarkable people. They were strong and independent individuals who made a significant contribution to their community. Capt. Bradley was a skilled navigator and a successful shipmaster. Mary Ann was a loving and supportive wife who was able to manage her husband's business affairs while he was away at sea. Together, they built a successful life and left a lasting legacy for their family and for the city of Liverpool.

An Authentic Narrative of the Shipwreck and Sufferings of Mrs. Eliza Bradley: The Wife of Capt. James Bradley of Liverpool, Commander of the Ship Sally, ... Was Wrecked on the Coast of Barbary, 1818 by Andrew Duff

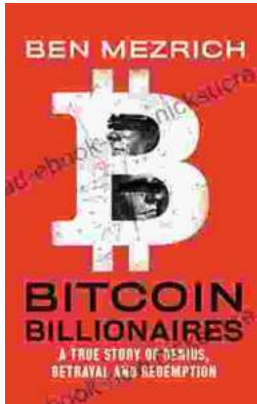

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 245 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 49 pages
Screen Reader : Supported

Chris Hogan: The Everyday Millionaire Who Shares His Secrets to Financial Success

Chris Hogan is an Everyday Millionaire who shares his secrets to financial success. He is the author of the bestselling book "Everyday Millionaires," which has sold over 1...

The True Story of Genius, Betrayal, and Redemption

In the annals of science, there are countless stories of brilliant minds whose work has changed the world. But there are also stories of...